Kendama

Kendama is one of the Japanese traditional toys that can be enjoyed by anybody, from children to old people, and we really value that inter-generational exchange. Nowadays it is widely spread to all over the world as a tournament game. However we believe that it can also be a self improvement tool, to improve mind and body.

Bamboo Draining Baskets/Sieves

Bamboo fiber contains water. Therefore each gap in the mesh naturally collects water. This makes bamboo ideal for draining water and doesn't damage the food.

※Natural rattan fiber are used for binding.

“Oni Orososhi”(Ogre Graters) – So called because the sharp cutting parts is reminiscent of the Japanese ogre’s teeth.

These bamboo edges allow the Japanese daikon radish to be grated without losing all of the moisture or breaking the fibers that radish contains.

It has a good number of bands and flexible to wash without damaging the rice. All natural materials used and therefore won’t scratch pans.

Beauty of the green bamboo which just grows upwards toward the sky, the rapid regeneration ability and vigorous roots, it is one of the most widely used plants in the world and loved eco-friendly materials. It is strong and flexible, not only combines beauty and practicality but also provides the warm glow of natural materials as well.

Mastery of the TAKUMI which has been passed down for generations keeps the luminosity beyond time and place.

In the age of the pressed time, select an item which walks beside you and grows with you like a family. In the age of the full of single use, select a lifelong item for you. Live together and age together with your one of a kind bamboo piece.

TAKUMI is a label set up to collect the best bamboo artisans' works from the local area of Oita, Japan. The next section of the catalogue is to introduce the pieces made by them.

Masato Takae / Based in Usa, Oita

Only using the best bamboo from Oita, carefully and elaborately woven wickerwork bags. The process is lengthy as the fibers need time to settle after weaving before the next row can be woven. The fibers naturally twist into each other to forming an organic barrier. This method creates a flexible and strong surface. It is sophisticatedly finished with two layers of lacquer and one layer of wax. The manufacturing process makes each bag unique. The more it is used the more the wax'sheen will come through.

Beppu Craft Group

The group's philosophy is to create a beautiful piece that you can live with for a long time. Six artisan are in the group and they mainly use natural bamboo for their products.

◇Yoshio Sugimoto<F> Born in 1949, Based in Beppu, Oita, Selected to the Japan Craft Design Competition and Asahi Craft Design Competition.

◇Yasu Hiroi<C> Born in 1958, Based in Beppu, Oita, Selected to the Japan Craft Design Competition and the Whole Country Officially Designated Traditional Craft Products Exhibition.

※Alphabetical signs after the each items such as C-5 are shown artisan's name(ex:C-5 is made by Yasu Hiroi<C>).

Beppu craft group is a team of artisans using bamboo. They choose the best bamboo to use for the product. Some people say that, all the products, are too beautiful to believe that they made from bamboo. Bamboo has natural oil which over time changes the colour and "caramelises" the products.
